No now her children has to be told their own mother killed herself to end the fight for her children I really feel sorry that that the children will have to told that their mother took her life and couldn't even live to see her children even if it supervised visits she at least seen her children but now Casey Carter is making her kids pay the price it is very sad that Casey Carter would be very good mother and kill herself to never see her children I just don't get it why any mother would do this kinda stuff planning her own suicide!

wow i cant believe someone would post that on her funeral websight you dont know what goes on in someones gead and being away from your kids is very hard maybe in her head she was doing them a favor you dont know the thoughts and battles and until you yourself walks in her shoes i dont think you should pass that kind of judgment also very harsh and disrespectful to post this on someones obituary

TP

Extremely disrespectful. How'd you like it if your sister committed suicide and I posted this shit on your sisters obituary where all of your family could see it? Fuck you. Keep your opinions to yourself.
