“ Earl was my last surviving brother. We shared a lot of good conversations, especially since he retired. I tried to teach him how to fish, but wasn't very successful. He'd help me take junk in to Rennsultuckey on occasion, and we'd go visit our mother, while she was living. Since he was a little guy, he loved ponies and horses. He'd go over and help Red Stoner with his animals and the Foxes. He was really tore up at the way Tom met his end, as was the whole family. If you see me staring off into space, be assured that I'm drawing on God's unlimited grace. The Lord assures me that I'll see him again, how about you, my friend.
