“ I met Kurtis at Four Winds quite some time ago. We instantly hit it off, he just had the kind of energy that pulls you into someone. His light, just radiated! I started calling him Kurtsy as a nick name right away, and it just stuck. After I left the casino we still stayed in touch, often checking on each other and getting brief updates on one another's current life situations. Also wish the other the best and giving advice/encouragement when needed. Every year we'd try to meet up for lunch on each others birthday. Never once did he skip wishing me a happy birthday, or Merry Christmas, and I was that same person for him. Our conversations weren't super long or super frequent, but just enough to know that we cared for one another and appreciated the friendship. I have a tremendous amount of hurt accepting this, but I will always keep my great memories very close. I pray he rests easy and I just know he will be living it up, racing mowers and doing what he loves, up in heaven.
Rip Kurtsy I love you ☐
