“ Grandpa loved to fish and we looked forward to our yearly summer vacation to a different lake to spend time with family and fish. Once Grandpa retired they ventured to Florida every winter, which became our yearly spring break vacation. One year the fish were biting so Grandpa wanted as much time on the water as we could get. We went fishing in the river one day and he said he had never seen someone jig a cane pole like I was that day. As soon as I put the line in the water I was pulling up a crappie. Grandpa stopped fishing and would just wait for me to catch a fish and he would hand me his pole while he was taking the fish off of mine. I think I caught 20ish crappie that day in about an hour, but to see the smile on his face, when he wasn't the one catching the fish, was priceless. I already miss you Grandpa, but know I will see you again in Heaven. Love you.
