“ Verna Vogt was my aunt. She was a part of my life growing up just as her children, my cousins, were a part of my life. There were many nights that I spent at their house. There were many summer days spent together at the cabin on Tippicanoe river. I remember her St Bernards that she used to show. I also remember the day that I was at their farm on Mount Ayr and there were tornadoes all over the place and they brought the Saints in. I was sitting in the recliner with it tipped back when there was this clap of thunder and suddenly I had a hundred pound plus dog sitting on my chest. I sat there and as loud as I could with a compressed chest started to yell, Aunt Verna, Aunt Verna. She came in and got Belle Star off of me. She made some comment about why did I let her up there, and I told her I didn't get much of a choice at the time. I have good memories of her, and I regret that I never had another chance to spend time with her, but I will always cherish the memories that I have of her.
